

LEADERSHIP COACHING TRAINING PROGRAM

The Leadership Coaching Training Program brings together a complementary group of 15 seasoned arts and cultural leaders. These individuals are committed to excellence and will form a community of practice and support both during and after program.

The 11-month program is built around proven methodologies from a seasoned teaching team of renowned master coach Damian Goldvarg, Ph.D. and NAS faculty, who will help you explore, reflect, apply and share new approaches to supporting leaders. You and your colleagues will come together at three in-person events and will participate in “at-home” activities between these sessions, designed to help you move forward on developing your own unique coaching style. These events and activities are designed to give you a deeper understanding of your own strengths and where you can make the most impact.

ORIENTATION Late October 2019

Get connected with your cohort of passionate arts and culture leaders.

FIRST CONVENING November 15-18, 2019

Meet your faculty and fellow cohort members in person over four days of intensive training on coaching fundamentals.

COACHING PRACTICE

Coach NAS clients around a particular challenge while gaining integral practice in your training.

CONTINUED ONLINE LEARNING

Learn more about yourself and others with our program’s expert faculty. Topics include helping others manage change, bias, emotional heat and power dynamics.

SECOND CONVENING April 26-30, 2020

Reflect on and sharpen your early experiences of coaching leaders with powerful questions, linguistic acts and accountability.

ADDITIONAL PRACTICE COACHING

Further hone your development as a coach with more NAS clients and the support of mentor coaches.

THIRD CONVENING & GRADUATION

September 10-13, 2020

Dive deeper into ICF competencies, your exam and evaluation of your coaching ability in this culmination of the program.

